'MAY HAVE TO FIGHT'—HITLER

Boasts Armed Strength, Takes New Slap at F. D.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, May 1—A stern warning that Germany may some day "have to fight for our vital rights" was delivered by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today in a course of two May Day speeches which ended on a note of peace.

Comparing himself with warmongers and agitators in other lands, the Fuehrer said:

"There is but one great difference between us. I love peace. This has been clearly proven by my work."

In addresses to German youth and workers, Hitler and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels scorned the "senile" democracies and asserted that in event of a showdown Germany would emerge with the "upper hand" in Europe.

Only one such fight, with the aid of Germany's allies, would be necessary to rout the inimical world, Hitler said, as he emphasized German security in an address before 132,000 boys and girls of the Hitler Youth Organization in the Olympic stadium.

Hitler took occasion to refer scathingly to President Roosevelt's peace appeal which prompted him to ask the smaller European countries whether they felt themselves menaced by Naz. Germany. Ridiculing a rumor that 20,000 German troops have landed in Morocco, he said:

SLAP AT ROOSEVELT

"When this is found untrue, it will be said they landed in Libya. When this is disproved, the rumor-mongers may name Madagascar or one of those countries which allegedly feel menaced by us, as you all remember."

Goebbels's speech, sounding the holiday keynote, was stronger still.

"Just as we conquered the old-time Germany," he said, "we will overcome the old-time world . . .

"The countries representing youth will gain the upper hand in Europe.

"You will have to fight for the new Germany, perhaps for a new Europe.

"But what could democracy, which has grown senile, do if faced by Nazi youth?"

Opening May Day demonstrations, converted into German Labor Day under the Nazi regime, Hitler said that Germany could trust its future just as it trusts its youth.

"From a powerless Reich has risen a greater Germany," said Hitler.

"Once despised, it is now respected. Once defenseless, it is now armed heavily.

Hitler Raps U. S. 'Boycott' on German Goods

BERLIN, May 1 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today proclaimed Germany one of the "most heavily-armed nations of the world" and Nazi diplomats pressed efforts to isolate Poland to make her ripe for yielding to German demands.

In two speeches—one to 135,000 boys and girls of the Hitler Youth Organization and another to brawn and brain workers" by a Berlin mass meeting—Hitler hit out at charges that Germany desires war.

He also took occasion to strike at American action against German goods, saying:

"The United State shas organized a boycott against German goods. It would have been better to import German goods than German emigrants."

SEEK BIGGER PENSION

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., May 1—A demand for heavier pensions for men who served in the World War was before the state today by resolution of V. F. W. Post 793.

ULSTER INCLUDED IN WAR DRAFT ACT

LONDON, May 1 (INS)—The cabinet of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today decided to include Ulster (Northern Ireland) in its conscription bill.

Provisions of the measure will not be applied to Ulster, however, until war becomes imminent.

This decision was reached in view of objections by Prime Minister De Valera of Eire. Canceling his proposed visit to the United States, De Valera warned that revolt was possible if Irish Nationalists in Northern Ireland were drafted.

In addressing the Dail Eireann, De Valera alluded to the conscription bill as a "grave event."

10 Inches Snow In Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, N. S., May 1 (Canadian Press)—A snowfall to a depth of 10 inches in some places was melting under a warm sun today in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Week-end storms brought the heaviest late snowfall in recent years. Truro, in central Nova Scotia, reported 10 inches had fallen early today. Halifax and New Glasgow were under seven inches of snow.

Highway traffic was disrupted and fishing parties were reported marooned.

High Court Plans To Adjourn May 29

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—The Supreme Court announced today that it will adjourn for the summer on May 29, barring unexpected developments. No decisions were delivered today.

Poles Aim To Rule Danzig

WARSAW, May 1 (INS)—Backed by a growing army and air force, Poland today indicated not only that she firmly refuses to give up Danzig to the German Reich, but demands even greater rights in the present free city.

Recognizing decline of the League of Nations authority, Poland hopes to take over the functions of the former league commissioner for Danzig, it was reported.

This would give Poland a powerful hand over the Nazi-dominated Danzig Senate, since the main function of the commissioner was to determine disputes between the free city and Poland.

In spite of the fact that Hitler in his speech Friday recognized Poland's right to an outlet on the Baltic, the official organ of the Polish government, Gazeta Polska, today said Germany's policy is directed towards separating Poland from the sea.

"Thus a situation is created which forces Poland to go farther in her demands than she did formerly when concluding the 1934 pact with Germany," the paper said.

The pact mentioned was the treaty of friendship and non-aggression denounced last week by Hitler.

Similarly the army organ, Polska Zbronja, stressed that Danzig lies at the mouth of the Vistula River, and "we cannot give it up."

Chilly Breeze, Frost Usher In May Day

May Day arrived today to the unusual accompaniment of a blanket of frost over most of the state and even on the outskirts of Greater Boston, the weather bureau reported.

Lowest temperature was reported at Norton, where the mercury registered 22. The temperature in Boston fell to 39 at 5 a. m.

Early risers reported thin layers of ice formed over small ponds, and chill blasts persisted from the northwest.

'New Money Mystery' Issue In Ex-Mayor O'Brien Trial

Money not issued until eight weeks after an alleged shortage was detected in his accounts as city treasurer was mysteriously "found" when a shortage was known, it was charged today at the trial of former Mayor James M. O'Brien of Revere.

The trial opened today before Judge Lewis H. Goldberg and a jury in Superior Court, the jury being selected in less than 10 minutes and with no Revere resident called.

In one indictment, returned by the special "blue ribbon grand jury" on May 27, 1938, O'Brien was charged with three counts of larceny totaling $15,635.43 while city treasurer of Revere.

Another indictment charged three counts of embezzlement.

Wellesley Girls Dunk Hoops Victor

My goodness, you never heard such a-shrieking and a-screaming in all your life as there was today when one capped and gowned contestant broke right from the barrier in the Wellesley College annual hoop roll, opened a long lead, fell, recovered the hoop and won going away.

SHE'S CO-WINNER—Uneligible entrant in the annual May day hoop race at Wellesley College provided unusual competition for Peggy Cahill (above) of New York, and Phyllis Sweetser of Newton Highlands, who tied for second, so they investigated. Winner was Harvard student, so disqualification netted Peggy—and Phyllis—co-victor's trophies.

This is the yearly May Day Matrimonial Sweeps for Wellesley seniors—4½ furlongs; claiming; for maidens 18-years-old and up.

Well, the winner today was a pretty good muddier, as proved by this swift recovery on the soft track from Tower Hill to the chapel steps, and the other students hugged and kissed the victor and crowned her Queen of the May.

VICTOR IS NO BARGAIN

Not beautiful, of course—sort of an ugly duckling, the girls thought—but it was touching when the victor posed with the man she introduced, in an excited tremolo, as her fiance, Walter R. Bowie, Jr., Harvard student.

"And what is your name?" a senior committee member asked the winner.

"Peggy Read," the victor boomed in a deep bass voice—and the astounded college girls nearly fell off their high heels at the change.

"Where are you from?" the committee member inquired apprehensively.

"The Harvard Lampoon," rumbled the winner happily—and started to run.

But the faker wasn't quick enough.

With screams of rage the girls hopped him, tore off his cap and gown, ripping them to shreds; snatched off his $42, beautifully-marceled wig and shredded that—then continued ripping until they had him down nearly to his skivvies.

DUNKED WITH VENGEANCE

Now they picked him up, these pretty Amazons, raced down to Lake Waban, and hurled him in with fierce relish.

But then the seniors were confronted with the problem of deciding the real winner of the hoop roll—the girl who, tradition has it, will be the first of her class to marry.

In the confusion over the win of "Peggy Read," who actually is Edward C. K. Read of Philadelphia, president of the Lampoon, the girls weren't certain about the second-place finisher.

Finally they called it a tie between Margaret Cahill of Park avenue, New York, and Phyllis Sweetser of Lincoln street, Newton Highlands.

Margaret became engaged last October to Thomas McGrath of Binghamton, N. Y., Dartmouth graduate, last June.

Phyllis became engaged only yesterday to Paul V. Hooper, Harvard graduate in 1937 and now in the medical school.

SLAYER HOWLAND GUILTY, GETS LIFE AS MOTHER SOBS

John Howland and Aida Butler

DOVER, N. H., May 1—John Henry Howland, swaggering ex-convict, ex-sailor and ex-deputy sheriff, changed his plea to guilty in the slaying of Miss Maude Horne, Milton, N. H., school teacher, here today and was immediately sentenced to spend the rest of his life in Concord state prison.

Across the courtroom Mrs. Rose Abrams, of Reading, Mass., his mother, stared ahead of her, unseeingly as tears flowed from her eyes.

The dramatic denouement came suddenly.

Howland, who bludgeoned the 61-

LION LOOSE! HOPS TRAIN AT GARDEN

For 10 hectic minutes a four-year-old African lion answering to the name of Zack was loose at North Station today.

The presumably ferocious feline made his escape from his cage through a so-called safety door at exactly 11:40 a. m. The cage was on a loading platform adjacent to the Boston Garden, where, tonight, the Barnum and Bailey and Ringling Brothers Combined Show (the greatest on earth) opens a week-long engagement.

Growling furiously he charged down the roof of the loading shed, to the consternation of workmen busily engaged in heaving red and gold wagons out of the four, all-steel trains belonging to the circus.

Mobilized instanter, however, the circus crew had a so-called trap cage ready and waiting for him at the end of the roof. Zack, however, double-crossed them with a gigantic leap to the roof of the Reading local train, waiting to pull out of the trainshed proper.

There were some 40 people aboard the local who were not informed of the happening, although they plainly heard the growling, roaring and scratching of claws on the roof. Nor did word of the affair permeate the station proper, where it might have caused considerable confusion.

The trap cage was again brought into play, and, 10 minutes after the adventure began, Zack was back in custody, captured by a crew captained by Animal Trainer Roy Chronister.

Mother of Ann Hewitt Dies Penniless

ANN COOPER HEWITT

NEW YORK, May 1 (INS)—Death had rung down the curtain today on the dazzling escapades of Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt McCarter, whose litigation-studded career was climaxed by the "sterilization" suit by her daughter, Ann Cooper Hewitt, 21, heiress to two-thirds of her father's estate. She was 55.

Married and divorced five times, Mrs. McCarter who once insisted in court she required at least $250,000 a year for living expenses died in penury, the defendant in a host of claims for unpaid bills and most of her possessions auctioned off to satisfy creditors.

Ann Cooper Hewitt charged on January 6, 1936, that she had been duped into submitting to an operation which had rendered her incapable of becoming a mother. The

ADMITS DROWNING HER BABY

PHILADELPHIA, May 1 (INS)—Holding her dead 11-day-old baby boy in her arms, Camille Katchko, 27, of New York city, approached a detective in the Broad street railroad station today and admitted she drowned the infant, according to police.

From conflicting stories told by the woman, police believe she drowned the child in a New York bus terminal and rode in a bus to Philadelphia with the body in her arms.

The woman told authorities the child was born out of wedlock last April 20 with a deformed foot.

Father of the child was a New York seaman, and she herself is the daughter of a prominent professor of music in that city, Miss Katchko reportedly said.

The body was taken to the morgue and police held Miss Katchko pending arrival of New York city authorities.

Break Over Week-End At Dr. Staley Home

Burglars broke into the home of Dr. Delbert M. Staley, president of the Staley College of the Spoken Word, who lives at 162 Babcock street, Brookline, sometime during the weekend.

The Staley family was away, and discovered the robbery on returning today. The robbers obtained $60 and a .32 calibre revolver, police said they were told.

BABY DOHY AND MOTHER, MRS. JAMES THURSTON

Watertown Baby Foils Death

Baby Dorothy Thurston of Watertown today had plenty of reason to be happy and join with her parents in celebrating her first birthday.

One year ago medical authorities gave her a 100-to-1 chance to live. She was born prematurely and weighed less than three pounds.

For more than two months the child lived in an incubator at a local hospital and was fed with an eye dropper.

Following a long fight against death, she began to add weight to her tiny frame and doctors consented to remove her from the incubator and allow her to go home to her mother, Mrs. Jane Thurston, of Winsor avenue, Watertown.

To the Boston Evening American Mrs. Thurston gives a great deal of credit for the rapid progress of her now healthy baby.

The Watertown mother followed the daily articles printed in this newspaper under the byline of Dr. Allen Roy Dafoe, famous doctor who brought the quintuplets into the world.

Dr. Dafoe's valuable information on the care of babies and formulas were followed religiously by Mrs. Thurston.

Today she said: "It was Dr. Dafoe's articles in the Boston Evening American that were greatly responsible for my baby's good health."

Doctors have marveled at the progress of the child, who was never expected to live any longer than a few days following her birth.

SEE HOPE OF LOWER HUB TAX

A chance of reduction in Boston's 1939 tax rate below the $41.30 rate for 1938 was seen today by the Civic Bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

In a bulletin issued by the Bureau, the Chamber went on record for the first time recently with an optimistic view of the tax situation, citing possible generous distribution of state highway money and substantial cuts in the state budget as encouraging factors.

SEE HOPE FOR DECREASE

Previously, the chamber had considered an increase over last year's rate as inevitable, but in today's bulletin, it cited the following changed conditions:

Reduction of the city's debt service charges from 12.2 millions to 10.6 millions.

City-county departmental income as high as 7.5 millions, compared to an estimated 6.3 millions last year, and an actual revenue in 1938 of 7.3 millions.

An increase in motor vehicle revenue of $250,000.

An estimated reduction in city non-relief, county, and school budgets of about $600,000.

Among possibilities which may result in even greater reductions, the chamber mentioned as most encouraging the proposed distribution of $10,000,000 of state highway fund money. A bill providing for the distribution is pending before the Legislature.

MAY CLIP OFF $1.60

"If this bill is enacted, it would take $1.60 off Boston's tax rate," the chamber's bulletin stated.

Special allocations from the highway fund were also mentioned, including a benefit to Boston of $250,000 for metropolitan parkway maintenance, and $100,000 to help meet the Sumner Tunnel deficit.

The city has a "fighting chance" to receive either or both of these allocations, but size of the general highway fund distribution dims the chance, the bulletin pointed out.

Further hope was seen from the new law postponing fixing of local tax rates in the hope that action can be taken meanwhile to revise the estimated state tax downward.

Following a complaint by the Securities and Exchange Commission, Bradford Dorr, investment counselor with offices in Boston and at 1430 Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, today was forbidden by the Federal Court to circulate tips on securities without revealing what brokerage commissions would be paid him for any business accruing from the tips.

Dorr, according to the complaint filed by Joseph P. Rooney, New England head of the SEC, made a business of circulating market tips to a list of subscribers. He then, Rooney told the court, was given a "takeoff" by brokerage houses for business gained through him. The ruling would make him tell his customers what he expected to get out of their trade.

Sentence 3 Children As Flag Salute Foes

SOUTH DEERFIELD, May 1 (INS)—A new turn in the case of William, Dorothy and Gloria Johnson, "Jehovah's Witnesses," children who refused to salute the flag in school even under order of the United States supreme court, came today when they were sentenced in district court to the Hampden County Training School in Springfield.

The school is for boys only and the case may again go to the highest court.

District Court Judge Abner S. McLaud passed sentence on the children and pending an appeal to the Franklin County Superior Court, which will sit at Greenfield in July, allowed them to go free without posting bail.

Judge McLaud found the children "habitual school offenders" for their repeated refusal to salute the American flag because of religious principles.

The judge ruled they were unable to show cause why they should not be punished for defiance of the Supreme Court decision which upheld the compulsory flag salute law.

If the case again goes to the United States Supreme Court, and again fails, Judge McLaud faces the knotty problem of solving what to put the two girls.

Meanwhile, South Deerfield School Superintendent Marvin J. Janes announced the children will not be permitted to resume their studies at the Deerfield school from which they have been twice expelled.

William is 12, Dorothy is 11 and Gloria is 8.

Tourists Tell Of War Fears In Europe

A famed designer of auto racing cars, five attractive dancers from Dorchester House, London, and a handful of returning tourists were aboard the Cunard White Star liner Britannic as she docked at East Boston today.

Reid A. Railton, designer and builder of the "Thunderbolt" in which John Cobb, London fur broker and amateur driver, set a world land speed record in Utah last Fall, posed for photographers with his wife and two children, glum at the future of the auto business in England.

WAR FEARS ABROAD

Fear of war in Europe, an ever-present tension over what is to come, imbues the people of every nation over there, all the travelers agreed.

Coming to live in Cambridge street, Brighton, were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Curley, both 78, and both retired school teachers, of Galway, Ireland. They have come to visit a son, P. J. Curley.

"Well I know James Michael Curley, the former governor," Curley said, but when he was asked about changing times in Ireland, he clucked his tongue and shook his head.

"It's a long hard story," he said. "Come out to my house some time and I'll tell you."

The five dancers, scheduled to appear in this country at some future date, were Marion Wolberg, Amelia Gentry, Betty Luster, Mary Neilsen and Doris Call.

Returning to her home in Edgehill road, Winthrop, after three months on the Continent and in England was Miss Aline Gillespie.

RETURN FROM ABROAD—Happy to be back, Marion Wolberg of Washington, Betty Luster of East Orange, N. J., Doris Call of Virginia, Mary Neilson of Long Island and Amelia Gentry of New York, wave greetings to Boston from the deck of the S.S. Britannic, after the ship docked at East Boston.

'Don't Oppose F. D.' Ickes Wans PWA

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Secretary Ickes warned employes of the Public Works Administration today that any of them found to be working against President Roosevelt's government reorganization plan would be "disciplined."

He did not say what form the disciplining would take, but veteran PWA employes said they believed it meant they would be discharged.

Ickes' warning was contained in a memorandum to all employes.

Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization Plan No. 1, submitted to Congress last week, provided among other things for establishment of a federal works agency which would take over the PWA. The latter agency has been under Ickes' administration since 1933.

"The President's plan, as submitted," Ickes' memorandum said, "does not consider the matter of an appropriation nor does it extend or curtail the life of PWA.

"There are several proposals now before the Congress which would extend the PWA program and provide it with operating funds. Proper legislation would, in effect, implement the President's first plan of government reorganization.

"If approved, this legislation would make the President's plan effective in so far as the Public Works Administration is concerned."

Aides said there had been mut[illegible] stings of discontent among many employes who feared reorganization would mean centralization and mass demobilization in the field.

Green Blasts Wagner Board

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Charging that the National Labor Relations Board has distorted the Wagner Act into "an instrument of oppression," Pres. William Green of the American Federation of Labor recommended today that the three-member body be displaced.

Appearing before the Senate labor committee, Green proposed substitution of a new five-member "federal labor board." He also testified in support of AFL amendments to the Wagner act offered by Senator Walsh (D.) of Massachusetts.

Among other things these amendments would broaden the right to appeal labor board decisions to the courts, would restrict the board's power to invalidate labor contracts, and would permit employers to petition for elections to determine which union should represent their workers.

In a 14,000-word statement Green detailed cases in which he said the board had discriminated against the AFL. He strongly supported the principles of the Wagner act and said it was to preserve these principles that the AFL had offered its amendments.

Tobin Denies Doyle Choice for City Post

Appointment of his personal physician, Dr. Roger T. Doyle, as health commissioner of Boston next fall, following retirement of Dr. Henry F. R. Watts, is remote, Mayor Tobin said today. Dr. Doyle's practise is so extensive as to require all of his time, the mayor said, adding reports Dr. Doyle would be appointed a trustee of City Hospital to succeed John P. Manning, who resigned Saturday, probably had their origin because he frequently plays golf with the doctor.

BROKERS DEFEND 'BLUE SKY' BUREAU

More than 100 financiers cheered attacks by two Boston attorneys on Governor Saltonstall's recommendation to abolish the "Blue Sky division" of the Department of Public Works at a hearing at the State House today.

Lothrop Withington, former Harvard athlete and Boston attorney, protested to the legislative committee on state administration that the present division is highly necessary to financiers.

"If you abolish this department, you will have all the brokers in Massachusetts hollering for a change," Withington warned.

"I don't see how abolition of this division can save a cent that cannot now be saved under the present authority of the department of public utilities.

"I pay taxes in Massachusetts and nobody wants them lowered more than I do. But I am very much disturbed about this."

Harry Finn, Boston attorney, outlined the work done by the division in examining prospectus offered to investors.

"The Blue Sky division can save millions of dollars to investors in this state," he said. "If you abolish this division you are going to open the door in Massachusetts to securities which, if sold here, will result in a great loss to the people of this state."

The hearing was one of several on Governor Saltonstall's recommendations for an emergency "economy" program of retrenchment by merging many state departments.

Pupils Honor Bus Crash Hero

CONCORD, May 1—In tribute to the man whose quick thinking saved the lives of 18 pupils when a school bus collided with a freight train, the 1500 pupils in Concord stood in silent prayer for a minute today while funeral services were held for James H. Flanagan, 68, bus driver.

Flanagan, who died as a result of his injuries, threw the bus into reverse gear and only the front of the vehicle was damaged by the freight train locomotive.

Several of the pupils who escaped with minor injuries, attended the services at St. Bernard's church.

He pleaded innocent to both counts of the indictment, charging he evaded the tax on $443,550 in 1935 and 1936. The first count concerned his income for 1935 and the second his income for 1936.

Savant, 59, Bride, 16 Honeymoon in Hills

BRANCHVILLE, Ind., May 1 (INS)—A 59-year-old Indiana University professor and doctor of philosophy and his 16-year-old bride were honeymooning in the rugged hills of this little Ohio valley community today unmindful of the stir their recent marriage caused throughout the state.

The elderly bridegroom is Prof. Arthur Deen, a bachelor, who taught a class in history at Indiana University last semester and said he expects to return to the faculty next fall.

The bride is 16-year-old Bernice Marie Parks whose family recently moved to the Indiana hill country from Livingston County, Kentucky. Their lamplight marriage on April 21 in the parlor of the Rev. Leonard Cummins at English, 15 miles north of Branchville, was not revealed until yesterday.

Prof. Deen, who comes from a pioneer southern Indiana family and is said to be wealthy, took his young schoolgirl bride to the home of his 81-year-old mother in the fastness of the Hoosier hills. A cousin of the bride, the former Alberta Parks, 19, and her husband, Roy Deen, 44, brother of the professor, also live at the farm.

MOTHER OPPOSED

Still opposed to Bernice's marriage was her mother, Mrs. Liza Parks, 32, of Alton, Ind. She refused to attend the ceremony. The girl's father, George Washington Parks, 48, a farmer, and her sister, Patricia, 13, appeared as witnesses.

The bridal party was driven to the preacher's home by Albert Gibson, teacher in the Leavenworth high school, where Bernice was a freshman. He said the girl had broken her engagement to a classmate sweetheart to marry the elderly professor.

Bernice is the eldest of six children. She and her husband said they plan to move to a house on the "North Forty" of the farm. The bride added:

"He's awful nice to me. Why, he bought me store candy twice last week and even got me a pair of patent leather slippers."

'Uncle Don' of Radio Takes Model as Bride

SCALP LEVEL, Pa., May 1 (INS)—Don Carney, "Uncle Don" to millions of children radio listeners, today married Ellen Alberta Marsh, model and fashion designer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marsh of Scalp Level, Pa. The ceremony took place in the bride's home and the newly-weds will motor to New York today, returning in time for him to give his broadcast.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

NAB 'WITCH MAN' IN DEATH RING NET

PHILADELPHIA, May 1 (AP)—Morris Bolber, called "Louie the Rabbi," a witchcraft practitioner, by persons under arrest in the investigation of the insurance-murder poison ring, surrendered to detectives today.

On a warrant charging murder, Bolber had been sought four days in the long investigation of the plot detectives say mal have taken 100 lives in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware in the past 10 years.

Police Captain James A. Kelly has said Bolber may have been one of two principals who originated the scheme that sent victims to their graves and then collected the insurance on their lives.

With the surrender of Bolber a dozen persons were under arrest on homicide charges. One, Herman Petrillo, has been convicted of one poisoning with the death sentence mandatory. Another, Mrs. Carina Favato, interrupted hre trial to confess that shemurdered three men.

Many of those under arrest are women—widows of men investigators have listed as victims of the ring.

Detectives are still seeking at least one more major figure—a woman. A murder charge names her as Mrs. Rose Carina, a widow, and says she was used by the ring as a "lure."

Simultaneous with Bolber's surrender came reports that police were holding a man believed to have furnished poison in wholesale lots—to members of the ring.

Meantime, questioning of two other prisoners continued. One was Cesare Valenti, alien ex-convict.

County Detective William J. Connelly said Valenti signed a statement admitting he helped poison Charles Ingrao for $9030 insurance.

Gift for Girl Youth's Excuse For Holdup

Spring was in the air, the girl is beautiful; she wanted a wrist watch, and he is an impressionable 17.

That's the explanation police claimed today was given by John F. Kelly of Linden Park street, Roxbury, one of two youths held for the holdup of a filling station at Massachusetts avenue and Southampton street last Saturday night, and the theft of $18.

Police said he confessed to the theft, and said he hoped the stick-up of Stephen Karsonas, the proprietor, would yield enough to buy the watch.

He has refused to identify the young lady he is alleged to have said inspired him, other than to say she is a brunette named Rita.

Under arrest with Kelly is James Hart of Nawn street, Roxbury. The two, police asserted, borrowed the revolver of an older man without his consent.

After the robbery Saturday night the boys were shot at by police, raced after a fire truck and squatted on the rear running board while the officers lumbered after them, afraid to shoot for fear they would hit a fireman. The firemen didn't know they were there.

Kelly and Hart were arrested in different spots at different times.

It is stated by the detectives that Kelly said they split the $18 evenly and then found his $9 not enough to buy a satisfactory watch. The girl hasn't received her watch yet.

The Kelly boy, questioned by Detective Sergeant Arthur M. Tirman, is said to have admitted he served time in Shirley Reform School, later went to a CCC camp in Colorado, was only recently discharged.

The owner of the holdup gun has told investigators he had no knowledge of the robbery until Kelly told him, hours after it occurred.

Chinese Bandits Kill French Priest

SHANGHAI, May 1 (AP)—The slaying of a French priest and kidnaping of two others by Chinese bandits who raided the Jesuit Mission at Haichow last Thursday was reported to Shanghai headquarters of the Mission today.

The slain priest was said to have been Father Hermand, 67, and those kidnaped were Father Ladayot, 72, and Father Delalardere, 27. The bandits were said to have fled when Japanese troops approached.

Everett Hero Hurt Saving Three From Flames

Battling flames with his bare hands and feet, Edward H. Goodwin, 38, of Broadway, Everett, saved his home and possibly the lives of three persons today.

He was rushed to Whidden Hospital severely burned.

Goodwin was awakened by smoke and the sound of crackling flames. Without pausing to put on a robe or clothing, he ran, dressed in pajamas, through a smoke-filled hall to the dining room, which he found ablaze.

He shouted an alarm, then began fighting the fire, pounding at the flames with his hands and feet.

His wife and members of a family in the upstairs apartment were aroused, notifying the fire department and hastening to Goodwin's assistance.

According to Fire Chief James J. Evans, Goodwin had nearly extinguished the blaze by the time firemen arrived. Carpet, furniture, drapes and walls of the dining room were destroyed.

Goodwin received first and second degree burns about the hands and feet. Chief Evans and Captain James A. Scott gave first-aid treatment, then ordered his removal to the hospital.

5000 Babes' Life Chance 'No Better'

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Some of the 5000 babies born today will have no better chance to see their first birthday than if born a year or even 20 years ago.

Miss Katharine Lenroot, children's bureau chief, said that fact was her greatest worry as Americans joined in observance of Child Health Day.

"We know more about how to keep babies alive and children well," Miss Lenroot said, "but our problem is to get the health resources spread over the country."

There have been two recent cheering notes, she said. The maternity death rate, which declined 14 per cent to 49 per 10,000, between 1936 and 1937, probably will show an even larger drop for 1938.

The second bright spot, she added, was that because of recent surveys the country has a more complete picture of its health needs than ever before.

NOT ALL BENEFIT

That was what convinced Miss Lenroot, she said, that all children and all parts of the country were not profiting from recent advances in treatment of pneumonia and other diseases and knowledge of proper child-feeding and care. She cited these conditions:

"One-third of the rural counties are without public health nurses and two-thirds are without child health clinics.

"One-eighth of the babies born in the United States are born without medical attention.

"One-third of the babies are born in families with annual incomes of $750 or less; one-half in families with $1000 a year or less."

The infant death rate was down in 1937 to 54 per 1000 live births, she said, but New Jersey's rate was far less, 39. In New Mexico, the rate was still 129. The mothers' death rate ranged from 25 per 10,000 births in Connecticut to 92 in Nevada.

Maureen's Mother Here

More than 450 travelers, many of them headed for the New York World's Fair, were New York-bound today after a visit of the Anchor Line steamship California here.

The California, in from Glasgow and Belfast, brought 41 passengers to Boston and 8886 cases of whiskey.

Among the passengers were Sheila O'Sullivan, 18-year-old sister of Maureen O'Sullivan, Hollywood movie star, and their mother, Mrs. Mary O'Sullivan.

The O'Sullivans, from Dublin county, Ireland, are making their first visit to America. Sheila, an accomplished pianist, will visit the Fair and then attempt to make good in Hollywood.

Hearings Soon On Pay Tax Ban

Legislation designed to exempt a million Massachusetts workers from the payroll tax under the Unemployment Compensation Act for at least another three years is scheduled for hearing this week before the Legislative committee on labor and industries.

With a $56,000,000 surplus in the jobless insurance fund, a special commission appointed to investigate the act, reported that continued suspension of the workers' tax would be advisable.

Unless acted upon by the legislature, the employe assessments are scheduled to begin again July 1.

In another recommendation, the commission suggested that the benefits be boosted from $5 to $7 as a minimum and from $15 to $16 as a maximum.

$1,804,458,552 Seen As U. S. Defense Bill

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP) Uncle Sam's national defense bill for the year beginning July 1 appeared likely today to reach the unprecedented peace time total of $1,804,458,552.

Even that amount, which will be increased by $477,000,000 if additional locks are approved for the Panama Canal, is far less than England's defense fund of nearly $3,000,000,000.

Congress already has made $553,000,111 available. In the years largest sum that service has received since the World War for acquisition of new weapons and expansion of the air corps.

For the navy, President Roosevelt has asked $790,429,453, which includes funds for construction of two [illegible] battleships and commencement of a $65,000,000 naval air base program.

Leaders plan to bring the naval bill to the House floor this week.

Military experts told Congress the army funds would give the infantrymen new semi-automatic rifles two and one half times more efficient than World War rifles, provide airmen with planes capable of speeds in excess of 350 [illegible] and provide [illegible] against [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

'WE MAY FIGHT' --- HITLER

through its own power and that of its friends."

The Germany of the future Hitler told the young people must present no reason to its youth represents . . .

"We want upright, hard men and reliable women, who will realize that nothing will come to them as a gift, but who know they have to fight, and who will not fall victims to poisonous doctrines aimed to undermine the nation's morale," he said.

"Also, we want sober people. Germans of the future will be measured only by their works carried out in the spirit of health."

He warned that Germany would [illegible]

The rest of the world now is speaking of its rights as it formerly did, when it attempted everything to deprive us of our vital rights. That time is now over. It will be definitely ended through you," he said.

[illegible]

"We and other youthful nations perhaps, will have to fight once for our vital rights.

"But if the outer world should ever believe it could clutch our liberty, then I know there would be an outcry from a million voices so powerful their hopes would be frustrated."

MUST BE UNITED

"We are respected again, although liked less. But we are content with the love among our selves. I am content that you stand behind me. Then, if the rest of the world threaten us, it will fail as it always has failed in the past."

Smaller demonstrations are being [illegible]

"We can win the struggle for existence only if we stand united, otherwise we will all go down together," he said.

If there is anyone who still cannot understand this, then he should look at the outside world.

"GREATEST REVOLUTION"

"What may we expect from there? The old encirclement politicians who in 1914 knew only hatred, are again at work. They are the same warmongers as in 1914.

"Therefore, all Germans must drop their prejudices and stand united so we can overcome any danger, because if we are not united, we shall be lost.

I shall educate the German people in this spirit.

[illegible] by the Nazis [illegible] May Day class [illegible] people [illegible]

"Germany has become more beautiful and brighter. We have substituted the people's unity for hatred and discord.

"We can deny that we are in the midst of the greatest revolution of all time."

"What am I without you?" he asked the workers. "No fuehrer can have more strength than is given him by united action."

Bridging reactionaries a [illegible] times, he continued:

"What seemed impossible by old time duelos has been achieved by German youth . . . Individual freedom may have been restricted in Germany, but only in the interests of the community and the whole nation."

"GREATEST LEADER"

[illegible]

"No country has an intelligence so respected as that of Germany," he said. "This is evidenced by our leaders. I think we can stand comparison with other countries in this respect very well.

"It would have been more reasonable, for example, had America imported German goods instead of the most inferior German sub jects (meaning Jews). We are happy we have got rid of them. How others get along with them is their own affair. I have taken care that they cannot become a menace to us.

"I have said they knew no fatherland because they are Jews. Now they have confirmed the statement themselves by agitating against Germany by all means at their disposal.

"I LOVE PEACE"

"There is but one great difference between us. I love peace. This has been clearly proven by my work. That is the difference between me and those war mongers.

"Look at my work and look at theirs. I am attempting to make the German people greater and happier. New buildings and factories are being constructed. This is the reason I want peace.

"Those things the warmongers are intrigued for their work is not creative. Their only activity is agitation. I do not have to name specific individuals. They are the smartest people in the world. They know everything.

"The only thing they did not know was that I would come to power and stay there."

Hitler attacked [illegible]

Referring to breakdown of the League of Nations, he continued:

"Our western fortifications are a better guarantee of Germany's liberty than the League of Nations. I am looking with unlimited confidence into Germany's future. That Germany shall be educated well is the business of my party. That it shall be protected well is the business of my defense forces. That it shall never be torn asunder or fall to pieces is the business of the peoples' community."

Nazis Charge Poland Jailing German Girls

BERLIN, May 1 (ISS)—Sentences as high as ten months in jail have been given to German girls in Gnesen, Poland, for illegally organizing girls' groups similar to the Hitler Youth, the German official news agency, DNB, asserted today in a dispatch from Warsaw.

The report, latest in a series of press charges that abuses are heaped on the German minority in Poland, came as [illegible] vast meeting of Hitler Youth in Berlin.

"The totalitarian states have turned thumbs down on President Roosevelt as a mediator because of his repeated attacks on their form of government," Fish points out.

Cong. Fish

"If the President involves us in a world war, he will undoubtedly be renominated and re-elected," the Republican from the President's own home county asserted.

PLENTY FOR DEFENSE

"He seems to think he has been especially anointed by God to police the world with American blood and American treasure.

"But no matter whether the President or the Cabinet favor collective security, economic sanctions, and military alliances, the Congress and the American people have no intention of sending their youth to be slaughtered overseas for the sake of British, French or German colonies nor to defend Soviet Russia."

Strawn Urges U. S. Mind Own Affairs

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP) ... Harold Strawn, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, urged today that the United States ... mind its own business in world affairs.

"If there is war we may have to get in to defend ourselves," Strawn said, "but there is no use going in to pull other people's chestnuts out of the fire.

"We've got plenty to do at home. The amount of recovery in the United States compared with that which has been made elsewhere, is deplorable."

The ...

"The greatest single force which pulled this country out of past depressions," the chamber stated, "was the flow of capital into old and new enterprises.

"Through that flow there were created new work opportunities, new income and new wealth for the nation, new revenues for government and new high levels of economic progress and of the standard of living."

'New Money' Issue In O'Brien Case

[illegible] was told by O'Brien [illegible] which was not told to O'Brien.

"O'Brien said, 'If there is a shortage, you will find it.' O'Brien was later told that the amount short was $12,501.51.

"On Monday, March 10, the combination of the vault was changed at the instructions of Mr. Kelley. During this time between March 7 and March 20 a Mr. Kovalinsky came to the office of the treasurer relative to a tax title. The sum of $2980.63 was charged against him.

"Kovalinsky will tell you he turned over to O'Brien, prior to January 7, a check for $2980.63, drawn on the First National Bank of Revere. The check was deposited, but no credit were given to Kovalinsky.

MISS FARRELL'S VISITS

"Later a woman named Agri came in with a receipt for $457.76. No credit was ever given to her and no record made of the payment.

"Every effort was made to locate the money. On May 14, although Kelley made repeated requests for the keys to letters and personal contracts, Miss Farrell did not return the keys.

"In May 18th Miss Farrell came into the office three times. She had no official business, but dropped in to say hello.

"Kelley had to go to Newburyport at about 12 o'clock. Fifteen minutes after he left for Newburyport Miss Farrell came into the office. Miss Mary Cox, chief clerk in the office, who had been working with the auditors, came in and found Miss Farrell.

"Miss Farrell went into the vault ostensibly to get personal belongings. She climbed up and took a steel box from a shelf. It was O'Brien's personal box. At the time, Miss Farrell had the key to the box.

FINDS THE MONEY

"As she stepped down she said I found the missing money. There's more than $12,500 here.'

"This—although the money had not been counted.'

On Monday the money was counted. There was $1900 in bills of $50 denomination, there was one package of $20 20s and one package of $10 20s, and on the top and bottom two $50 bills.

"Attention was called to the crisp, new bills. Crowley took the numbers of the bills. Mr. Kelley took the money to the First National Bank of Revere, at the same time taking the numbers down, and called attention of the cashier to the numbers.

"An investigation was made at the First National Bank of Boston and Mr. Clark of the First National Bank of Boston will tell you these bills were issued on April 18, 1935, eight weeks after the shortage was discovered."

"There was an understanding between Kelley and O'Brien," said Detham, "that Miss Farrell would remain in the office in order to acquaint Kelley with the mechanics of the office, and later was to become secretary to O'Brien. She stayed a few weeks in the office.

"On March 7, 1935, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts caused an audit to be started. At that time it was conducted by a man named Crooks, who has since passed away, a Mr. Becker and two others.

"Very early in the audit it was discovered that there was a shortage of $12,277.24. When it was discovered the auditors told O'Brien about it and asked Miss Farrell to assist them. She was there until April 8th but the money could not be found. A thorough search was made.

"Mr. Becker will tell you the exact amount of the shortage.

SPINSTERHOOD should not be a requisite for teaching, says Superintendent of Schools Julius E. Warren of Newton, who expresses the opinion that a happy marriage which does not interfere with her work may increase a woman's usefulness in the classroom.

Pointing out that the public does not expect female lawyers and doctors to retire when they marry, Superintendent Warren asks

"Is it fair to make an exception of teachers by compelling them to choose between careers and marriage? Have we the right to force these women to face lonely old age after 30 years of unselfish service? Shouldn't they have the privilege to enjoy children and grandchildren of their own?"

"Baseball's Clown Prince"

WE TAKE [illegible] with the [illegible] Classic [illegible] Ruth and Babe Ruth [illegible] Among [illegible] Babe Ruth [illegible] and the Babe [illegible] have become institutional.

I remember when I was a kid in Indiana I was reassured in the night when I heard the whistle of old No. 6 Baltimore & Ohio at just the moment when she should have been pulling on schedule. Here was a safe and solvent universe still doing business at the same old stand.

And so it seems with Al Schacht's first vernal caperings. If what we've been through hasn't benched him, it begins to look as if we might be safe and as if the world would wag along for quite [illegible]

I NEVER KNEW until the other day that Al Schacht was born on [illegible] what is now the Yankee Stadium deep in the left [illegible] days, the [illegible] was [illegible] term and it was good [illegible] him over to Newark for three years. The Giants bought him - horseplay and all - in 1917.

It was with the Washington club that he and the also famous baseball comic, Nick Altrock, formed their illustrious clowning partnership. For several years they didn't speak a word to each other, but it was a winning partnership just the same.

At [illegible] first class circus and [illegible] the [illegible] league baseball batter with the pitcher trying to show him the wind up.

I SOMETIMES THINK that what we most need in our time is our own Commedia Dell' Arte with great pantomimists like Al Schacht and Harlequin to kid the show when we get to taking ourselves too seriously.

Opening Congress with a deadpan comic act, put on by some former virtuoso of politics, comparable to Al Schacht in baseball, might be worth trying. Jimmy Savo, imitating a conveyor belt around the automobile factory, ought to put everybody in a good humor and sooth labor troubles.

Something like that might go, too, as a preliminary to a directors' meeting or for any of such minor-league interests which will be running second to baseball in a few weeks more. But I suppose it can't happen here.

Never was the air so full of over-serious posturing and alarmviewing.

EARLY EDITIONS of the World's Fair maps, drawn by humorist-artist Tony Sarg, have become collectors' items. It seems that Mr. Sarg played a joke on Grover Whelan and included in the map some tiny figures and lettering that were discovered only after 500,000 maps were off the press.

A strong magnifying glass reveals Sally Rand (who isn't appearing at the Fair), perched in a tree near the Sun Valley exhibition. In a corner of the transportation zone map there is a drawing called "The Rape of Europa" on which is some slightly racy lettering anent Ferdinand the Bull. And in the map of the exhibit area, lower left corner, one of the buildings is labelled with a French legend which upset Fair authorities no end. Why, Tony Sarg!

EDDIE DOWLING is very happy over Boston's response to his low-price experiment. He tells us that box office receipts for "Our Town" (what a beautiful play that is!) exceed in one evening the "take" for the entire week when the play opened here. That's something for producers to ponder over.

TOMMY CORCORAN
Outsmarts Slow Congress?

WASHINGTON, May [illegible] [illegible] Mr. [illegible] much more subtle and cunning than its own are the minds of the President, and the Corcorans and Cohens who make up his undercover "Kitchen Kabinet."

The White House group of reformers have been able to run intellectual rings around the slow-thinking gentlemen on the Hill, whose mental processes are rather those of the ice wagon than the horse and buggy.

Since 1933 Congress has made it a habit to leap first and look afterwards, one outstanding consequence of this policy being our present $45,000,000,000 national debt.

THE WHITE HOUSE has now sent to the capitol the first part of the inner circle's plan to reshuffle the governmental set-up, and Congress is all prepared to gulp it down first, and then do a lot of wistful regretting later on, as the full import of what it has done sinks in.

The President's plan, which he describes as being intended to "make democracy work," actually is contrived, by accident or design, to strengthen the greatest enemy that democracy in this country has ever encountered: the vast Washington bureaucracy.

The plan adroitly perpetuates not merely the whole existing order of bureaucracy, but intertwines the "emergency" set-up, with the regular government organization in such a way as to make their eventual separation doubtful if not impossible.

IF THIS PLAN is a sample of what is to come, the whole reorganization will so bind the emergency institutions with the normal functions of government that the plan once being approved by Congress we may as well make up our minds to a perpetual annual budget of between eight and nine billions of dollars.

Since the budget is already unbalanced, how could such a permanent annual drain be sustained save by increased taxation?

Congress ought to look this squarely in the face - but probably won't.

The Reorganization Plan No. 1 has already increased the deficit apparent in Congress.

The New Deal is determined to perpetuate itself. Many in Congress who had thought that after the ending of the emergency, the whole alphabetical set-up could be legislated out, now are in a mood to throw up the sponge, say "What's The Use!" and let Fate take its course.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL EXCUSES ERRORS

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, May 1 — Corporation Counsel Robert Jackson, appointed the New York County Lawyer, A reception and then submitted to questioning. "Don't you think," Jackson was asked "that the AAA decision means the beginning of the regimentation of our farmers—a regimentation which later will spread to other fields—that this is a blunder which will affect our generation and generations to come?" . . . "Each generation," replied Jackson, "has a right to make blunders of its own. This decision just means another lawsuit."

ACCLAIM: Helen Keller, the blind and deaf woman who has become one of the world's greatest inspirations, was in the city for Comedy Symphony Night. Looking flushed and excited, she said, "I loved your new book. It has the quality of 'The Covered Wagon' pioneering until you crossed the frontiers into the greatness of the theater." . . . Then she asked Laurence Olivier and asked, "Is he handsome?"

"Yes," Miss Cornell answered.

Miss Keller reached for Laurence Olivier's face. Maybe it was the way that was introduced to Miss Keller first, but Miss Keller felt and said, "You're a nice siren," said Miss Keller, "but your hands don't feel like a siren's . . . except for their charm."

CRITICISM: A Cabinet member was shocked by the criticism of comics for ridiculing the visit of their Majesties . . . "But this is ridiculous," the critic protested to the comics. "You may advocate overthrowing His Majesty," the comics informed, "but you may not ridicule him."

'Union Pacific' Due at Met Wednesday; De Mille Epic

Producer-Director Cecil B. DeMille tops 25 years in the film business with "Union Pacific," his most ambitious project, which opens on the Metropolitan screen on Wednesday.

This epic story is built around America's great trans-continental railroad and the seven turbulent years of its building. It features Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea. The picture opens with the day Abraham Lincoln signs the act of Congress creating the railroad. The climax is the driving of the gold spike at Promontory Point, Utah, signifying the completion of the railroad and the linking of the two coasts of the United States.

Highlights of the picture are the struggle against Sioux warriors battling against both forces of nature and a desperate war with Indians.

Importantly featured are Akim Tamiroff, Robert Preston, Lynn Overman, Brian Donlevy, Robert Barrat and Evelyn Keyes.

The screen play by Walter DeLeon, Cecil Hampton and Jesse Lasky, Jr., and story by Ernest Haycox, [illegible]

PREMIERE OF FRANK FAY'S SHOW AT PLYMOUTH TONIGHT

Elsie Janis Among His Stars

By PEGGY DOYLE

There is considerable interest in tonight's opening at the Plymouth Theater of Frank Fay's show, which isn't exactly a revue and yet has some of each in it and a great deal more including the incomparable Elsie Janis, the distinguished Eva LeGallienne and screamingly funny Smith and Dale.

Boston is the first stop in an Eastern tour of the Frank Fay show that has been the talk of New York. Meanwhile Fay is developing a "second edition" which will double back to Broadway for the World's Fair.

Frank Fay's Show has been called a mad of Anne Nichols' Chauve Souris, a melange of excellent entertainment spiced by the famed wit and wisecracks of the master of ceremonies himself.

Miss Janis, the delightful darling for the chorus girls' crowd to them, in World War days will be heard in her favorite impressions of stage and world celebrities as well as in some favorite old-time songs. Miss LeGallienne, leader of the Civic Theater movement, will give the ballroom scene from "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Romance of Isabel Weiss."

Star this week and producer next week Elsie Janis went to the stage premiere of Play, Inc.'s Wonder Picture, Life Begins. Our Town, at the Henry Miller. Well, bring another picture to Boston next week, the Wife's Story!

Lee Vincent Carrillo, comedy which was selected by the unanimous vote of the Drama Critics' Circle as the best play produced in America this season, has the star, Dorothy Gish, and Albert Dekker, Leona Maricle, Ilka Chase and Ruth Gordon in the cast. Monday evening at the Wilbur.

Seats for "The White Steed" go on sale at the Wilbur box office tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Prices range from 55 cents to $2.20 on Wednesday and Saturday evenings and matinees and $1.10 on Thursday evening.

Our Town is having a much happier reception than when it premiered here under Ted Hanley's management and Eva Le Gallienne's direction at the Tremont St. house. It is in its second week tonight.

The next Federal Show at the Copley will be "Lucy Stone," due next Tuesday, May 9. This drama of the emancipation of women is by Miss Maud Wood Park, who was a Suffragist pioneer and is herself a descendant of Lucy Stone.

SECOND WEEK AT PLYMOUTH — Raymond Roe and Theresa Wright listen attentively to Eddie Dowling, center, in this scene from "Our Town."

Terry vs. Stengel: Measure of Opposites

TODAY COL. WILLIAM TERRY of the Giants was cordial. Col. Terry smiled. Col. Terry talked baseball with a jocund dignity. Never a snarl curled his lip. No gleam of animosity lit his eye. No bulge of irritation swelled the muscles of his jaw. Yes! Col. Terry, scourge of the newspapermen, was chatting with a sport writer of his own volition and from his own precious leisure. Mirabile dictu, as that old latin scholar, Dave Egan, would say.

AUSTEN LAKE

The middle aged autocrat of the dugout has a salting of gray hair on his scalp. Now in his gathering age he sucks a black, briar pipe which he holds 'twixt thumb and forefinger instead of gnawing unlit cigars like a child chewing its nails. He wears the sable clothes of a prosperous mortician and a salad green hat. He munches his words like polysyllabic breakfast food.

Does Mr. Terry ever read what the press writes about him? (Pause.) Yes! Does it get under his skin? (Pause.) No! Does Carl Hubbell's arm condition give him concern? (Finger twiddles like the action of flying swallows). He takes fate as fate dishes it out! What about our 1939 Bees? (Deprecatory puckering of the mouth). Some better, but the same old Bees!

It made a terse catechism. Questions and answers both were trivial. But the main thing is that Terry stood steady under examination and didn't pink petulantly about his jowls, didn't thrust out his doorstep lip, didn't make any headache scowls. And when the conversation languished he even volunteered observations of his own. The Pirates would, as usual, lick themselves. The season would resolve into a stretch race between the Giants and Cubs. Now, as a non-playing manager, he was stationed at the focal point of danger, coaching at third base. So forth, et cetera.

WEIGHT NEVER A PROBLEM REVEALS DON MEADE

Ace Jockey Tells of His Lone Serious Turf Accident

Meade's Own Story of Early Struggles For Racing Fame at Country Fairs

This is the second of a series of articles in the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser on Jockey Don Meade's own story of his amazing racing career. In the first article, Meade told how he was suspended by the Florida Racing Commission for betting on horses other than his own in races. Meade frankly confessed his guilt, but is thankful nobody ever accused him of pulling a horse or "fixing" a race. He said that on numerous times he beat the horse he bet on. Continue Meade's remarkable story today.

By DON MEADE

(As Told to Dave Wilson and Jack Conway)

Copyright, 1939, by the Boston Evening American, Inc. and Don Meade.

I was the proudest youngster in the world when Sam Orr told me he would develop me into a great jockey.

Some day, Don, you may have your leg up on a horse in the Kentucky Derby, and if you are made of the right stuff you can win," said Orr good-naturally.

Orr [illegible] my confidence in myself, but in the time I was alone, I dreamed that some day Don Meade, the mechanic's son from a little South Dakota town, would bring a thoroughbred into the winner's [illegible] at Churchill Downs.

Little did I think at the time that I would be aboard Broke's Tip, Derby winner, in 1933.

I only weighed 75 pounds when I signed with Orr.

"If you were soaking wet you might make 80 pounds," said Sam with a grin as he watched me step on the scales.

Complete relaxation as Mrs. Meade lights up for Don after a well cooked meal. Nothing like home life insists Don.

By nature I was small, and even today, I only scale 109 pounds. One often reads stories of how jockeys are obliged to almost starve themselves to death in order to make the required weight.

FOOD NO PROBLEM

This may be true in some cases. I know that many jockeys have to diet carefully and do road work to keep their weight down. In my own case, I eat what I wish, and do not pack on weight. Even during the time I was under suspension I did not put on a single pound.

I think this [illegible] of the reasons I have been [illegible] as a jockey. When I get on a powerful thoroughbred, I have my full strength, and, so, am better able to control the horse more easily than some boy who might have weakened himself making weight.

My wife, Jo Ann, is my cook now. When I am at a race meeting for a long period of time, we get our own apartment, and live a home life.

Jo Ann does the cooking and house work, while I tell her of the thrills of racing.

Joe Ann loves the glamour and atmosphere of the track, and when ever I go to the post she always has a $2 bet on my horse. I think Jo Ann would bet on my mount even if I were opposing Johnstown with an ordinary stake horse.

When at a track, I am up with the sun, and have the usual race track breakfast of jockeys. It consists of orange juice, rolls and coffee.

When I return home after exercising my horses, Jo Ann has my luncheon prepared. My main course is usually bacon and eggs or calves liver and eggs. I also have a baked potato and either coffee or buttermilk.

BIG MEAL AT NIGHT

After the races I have my principal meal. I will usually have an appetizer like a crabmeat or fruit cocktail, steak, baked potato, two green vegetables, dessert and coffee.

I have told you this story about my diet to make you realize that when weighing only 75 pounds at the age of 16, I was faced with many difficulties in putting on necessary weight.

The first winter I was with Sam Orr I exercised his horses. This is one of the best ways to gain experience in riding. I was up on all kinds of horses, and I had to be alert to prevent myself from getting many bad falls.

The summer of 1926 found me at Landsdown Park at Vancouver, Canada. Sam Orr had shipped some of his best horses to this meeting, and I was anxious to compete in a real race. I was then 16½ years of age and filled with a burning ambition to make good.

Orr owned a horse named Omaradale, which was entered in a six and a half furlong race on July 5, 1926.

FIRST BIG CHANCE

I was in the office of the racing secretary as Orr entered the horses.

"Do you want to name your jockey now?" asked the racing secretary.

Orr took a quick glance at me. I have often thought he read the look of expectancy in my eyes.

"Don Meade will ride," snapped Orr and hurried out of the office of the racing secretary.

My heart beat as fast as raindrops falling on a roof during a cloudburst. I was at last to get my big chance.

I was a proud youngster as the horses paraded to the post. I had ridden Omaradale in workouts, and knew what the horse could do. At the break, I hurried him out front and kept him there to the finish. I had won my first race, and

I decided I would not [illegible]

Death is riding every day out there on the race track. But few jockeys ever give a thought to such a thing. It is [illegible] that they forget to do so. Otherwise they would not be whooping away to the clubhouse turn fighting to gain the slightest possible edge over their rivals.

I have been thrown from horses many times, but other than the fractured skull which I suffered as a youngster, I have never met with a serious mishap.

Racing in Florida, New York and in New England this year I have ridden hard, but have been fortunate in escaping bad spills.

One day at Saratoga a few years ago in a field of 21 horses my mount was third when he stumbled and I was crashed to the ground. I rolled for a few yards and lay motionless while the other 18 horses passed over me.

A thoroughbred will seldom step on a jockey on the ground unless the horse is stumbling. When jockeys have been kicked by a horse while they have been on the ground, it has usually been because the thoroughbred fell or stumbled or the jockey started to get up before the entire field of horses had passed over him.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, Don Meade tells how he became the leading apprentice rider at New Orleans. He also reveals some racing secrets.

Kentucky Derby Is Greatest of Races ⁞ Classic Is Rich With Traditions

IT IS DERBY week at Churchill Downs at Louisville, Kentucky, with horsemen gathered from all parts of the world for the running of the great turf classic on Saturday. Other famous races fade into insignificance when compared with the Kentucky Derby which is rich in racing tradition.

There will be many New England race goers on the stand when the Derby is run on Saturday. While many of the local fans figure the fast stepping Johnstown will win the Derby, some of them will play Heather Broom, Technician, Challedon or some other horse in an effort to get a better price.

It was Lawrin in front in the D by last year with War Admiral winning in 1937 and Bold Venture in 1936. The year Bold Venture finished first most of the noble experts had named Brevity as a sure winner. Dave Wilson was the only nationally known handicapper who picked Bold Venture, with a payoff o' $42.00, to come home in front of Brevity.

Bruce Wetmore of Suffolk Downs was one of those who witnessed the 1936 Derby who rode to victory with a juicy bet on Dave Wilson's Bold Venture.

The $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap and the $25,000 Narragansett Handicap have been built into outstanding turf classics in recent years, but none of these events rate as highly as the Derby in the matter of racing background and tradition. There have been occasions when as a race the Derby did not compare with numerous other handicaps, but it has always retained its position as THE race of the year.

There will be special trains from New York and from all sections of the mid-West to Louisville for the race.

Pimlico Opens Meeting Today

ALFRED GWYNE Vanderbilt's Pimlico opened today for a two weeks' meeting. The feature of the meeting will be the famous Preakness, which will be run a week from Saturday.

Charley McLennan is Racing Secretary at Pimlico, and he has many of the better horses for his meeting. From Pimlico Charley McLennan will come to Suffolk Downs for the meeting of the East Boston track that opens on May 16.

Bristol Handicap at Narragansett Park

NARRAGANSETT PARK will have the $5000 added Bristol Handicap as its Saturday feature. Belair Stud's Fighting Fox has been nominated for this stake. Mrs. E. Graham Lewis' Paglucci, which showed so well at Bowie, is also headed for the Pawtucket, R. I., track.

The Denemark's horses, Blind Eagle, Court Dance and Higher Cloud, are already at Narragansett.

Other horses nominated and on the grounds are Woodsaw, U-Boat, Blind Pig, Manseo, Bold Turk, Nalty Boy, Panther Creek, Clodion, Sirasia, Infidox and Pit Tender.

T. H. Heard, Jr., will send the sensational Be Blue after the big money, while George Odom will bring Don Meade back from New York to ride Early Delivery. The latter finished third to Be Blue in the Spring Stakes on opening day.

The Lexington 1-mile and 70 yard dash, will be the mid-week feature at Narragansett Park.

Ramdon Shots at Target

ONE WILL have a better line on the Red Sox following their Western trip that opens in Cleveland tomorrow afternoon . . . From Cleveland the Sox go to Detroit, then to St. Louis and Chicago . . . Cleveland and Detroit are the strongest of the Western teams . . . Cleveland is not willing to concede that the Sox are the only club that has a chance to beat out the Yankees for the pennant . . . Detroit has good batting power, but, like the Sox, needs pitchers . . .

Lou Brouillard is back training, and will soon be ready to take on rival middleweights . . . Brouillard showed to good advantage during his recent trip to France . . . Harry Day is personally on the job each day directing the "Eye in the Sky" at Narragansett Park . . . This is generally accepted as the best camera used in making photo finishes.

The camera has become a necessary part of racing . . . Pictures of close finishes eliminate disputes and end doubt . . . Idle Sun, winner of the third race at Narragansett Park on Saturday for payoff of $11.10, was Dave Wilson's code horse.

Weston Adams was pleased with the fine ride Jockey Robart gave Blue Grotto and Whooper . . . Grotto won, while Whooper was only beaten in a photo finish . . . Hockey Brown has made a hit with the crowd at Narragansett Park.

Clocker Bill Smith insisted that I split a $2 bet with him on Be Jabbers, which lightened my grief when Wat Minstrel ran out of the money . . . That was an amazing race Johnstown ran in New York.

Diamond Ring Finals Lure N. E. Boxing Elite

24 Bouts on Tap For Fans in Big Windup

A 24-bout show, in which the elite of the amateur boxing world from Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire will partici pate, will be staged tonight at the Boston Arena, where the Irish-American A. A. is holding its Diamond Belt finals.

Four trial tournaments have been staged during the past month and the winners will start tossing punches tonight at 8:15.

Included in the lists are such headliners as Tony Ferry, New England and Eastern All-America champion; Pat Devine of Cambridge, Tommy Sullivan of South Boston, Herve Liberte of Manchester, Bill Tordiglione, Alex Belushko of Cambridge (remember his fight with Sullivan?), and Dom Cordarelli of Providence, R. I., light heavyweight champion.

The boys have a dual incentive tonight.

In addition to the beautiful "sparklers," the winners will be given a chance to compete in the grand inter-city tournament with New York and Philadelphia headliners, which will conclude the season next Monday, also at the Arena.

The long series of tournaments staged by the "Irish" the past winter have brought many new boxers into the limelight, and many of them will be starring in pro rings when the game picks up next fall.

Of all the winter's shows, however, tonight's looms as the best.

PIN TOURNEY OPENS NEW CENTER TONIGHT

The new Nautical Recreation Center, New England's largest and most elaborate indoor playground, held its preview yesterday at Revere Beach with more than 20,000 interested persons enjoying a pre-opening glimpse of the various activities on the huge floor space.

Tonight the doors swing open for the inauguration ceremonies. Many state and city officials will officially start off the series of games which will run both winter and summer. Tonight the seventh annual New England candlepin tournament, sponsored by the New England Bowling Association gets under way. The event will continue for two weeks, including Sundays. More than 3000 men and women bowlers are entered.

The tournament will use all of the 24 modern alleys which have just been finished.

Michael J. Hines, who has operated bowling alleys throughout New England and who is regarded as the foremost authority on the sport in the east is the owner of the new beach enterprise. Aside from bowling there also will be table tennis events, and other indoor games.

DiMag's Bat Missed As Yanks Go West

By International News Service

The New York Yankees hit the road today along with other clubs in the eastern division of the American League to play a series out through the West, with the outcome none too rosy for the world champions, the reason being the absence of Joe DiMaggio from the lineup.

Having suffered a leg injury Saturday, the young but quite terrific outfield star was left behind to recuperate, removing the Yanks outstanding hitter of the moment from the game.

The Yanks are going to miss him. He was hitting up around .400 when he hurt his ankle and leg on a fall in the outfield, and without him the Yanks have only one batter in the upper brackets—Catcher Bill Dickey, who also is pasting the ball at a .400 clip.

The latter has been moved up into DiMaggio's cleanup slot in the batting order.

GORDON .136

The rest of the club is not hitting much more than the size of a hat, and that includes Jake Powell and Tom Henrich, who will alternate in centerfield until such time as DiMaggio returns to the team, possibly two weeks hence.

The lack of Yankee punch was clearly demonstrated as they dropped their second straight game to the Washington Senators, 3 to 2, Joe Krakauskas holding the champs to four hits and, with the defeat pushing them out of undisputed league leadership into a tie with the Boston Red Sox.

With Lou Gehrig hitting .143, Frankie Crosetti .147, and Joe Gordon .136 the Yankees right now need all the punch they can get, and losing DiMaggio is not regarded as a solution to the problem.

The club noted for its steadiness and power at bat, is in one of its worst slumps suffered in any recent campaign. All hopes of avoiding a tailspin now are pinned on the hurlers.

BAG BY HOLDS A'S

Meanwhile, the Red Sox are coming along about as expected and furnishing the chief contention, a 3 to 1 victory having been scored over the Philadelphia Athletics by young Jim Bagby, who allowed only seven hits.

The Detroit Tigers put on the day's one wild spree, beating the Cleveland Indians, 14 to 1, highlights being Tommy Bridge's six-hit hurling for his third victory and a home run by Charlie Gehringer with the bases loaded.

The Chicago White Sox beat the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 5.

The pace-setting Cincinnati Reds were rained out against the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League, but the Boston Bees continued their spirited play and beat the New York Giants, 3 to 2.

Lou Fette turned in his third win as the Giants lost their fourth straight.

Chicago Cubs downed St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 1, and Brooklyn Dodgers won from Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 1.

Red Sox on Top; Stengel's Bees Just Point Away

closing stanzas, walking one man each of the final three innings, each of those passes making things too hot for comfort.

He had a 3-0 lead from the sixth on and three runs is usually a mighty large lead for Fette to work on.

Ott's double to center and Demaree's walk in the seventh caused some consternation. But with two gone, Jurges forced Demaree at second.

MILLER LIFE SAVER

Whitehead opened the eighth with a single and O'Dea, batting for Pitcher Manuel Salvo, walked, two on and none out. But Eddie Miller came through handsomely, starting a double play on Moore's grounder which saved the inning.

The worst moments of all were reserved for the final session when many of the cold defying gallery were heading homewards.

Here, with one gone, Ott walked, Bonura struck out, and Demaree shot Ott to third with a single to center. Then Billy Jurges laced the ball along the right field foul line on which Maxie West made a gallant but failing effort to smear, landing on his face in the turf instead.

Ott and Demaree came romping home to ruin what had looked like a shut-out and there was Jurges perched dagerously on third.

Bob "Suitcase" Seeds was called in to bat for Whitehead in an attempt to deadlock the issue. Seeds' hard hit fly to left field dropped safely into Simmons' willing hands and the battle was over.

Tomorrow St. Louis comes to town for a two-game series, start of an invasion of the Beehive by western clubs. Following arrive the Cinci Reds for three games, the Pirates for three and the Cubs for two.

"Lefty" Gomez Fined For Speeding in Ct.

GREENWICH, Ct., May 1 (INS)—Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, Yankee hurler, who speeds them across the plate on the diamond, today appeared before Judge L. Paul Burke and pleaded guilty to speeding between 60 and 65 miles an hour on the Merritt Parkway.

He was fined a total of $19.37 on the charge and another which was for failure to have a license when arrested by state police April 29.

Lefty voiced his displeasure at having to "chase all over town" to get a $50 bill changed in order to furnish bail of $50.

The Yankee hurler said the police sergeant at the desk at police headquarters was surprised when he saw the bill.

Judge Burke interrupted and told him it was probably because the sergeant had not seen a $50 bill in a long time.

Bookies Fear Johnstown Derby Win

By ED CURLEY

International News Service Staff Correspondent

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., May 1 (INS)—A Johnstown victory in the Kentucky Derby Saturday afternoon will cost the leading future bookmakers throughout the country more than a million dollars.

Including the smaller bookmakers, who have laid against the Belair stud ace at opening odds, the sum will amount to half a million more.

This information is the conservative figuring today of one prominent in nation-wide bookmaking.

15-1 AT OPENING

Johnstown was as good as 12 and 15 to 1 When the futures were announced, he said, and now after winning a brilliant victory in the Wood Memorial Saturday he is at 6 to 5, a tremendous reduction.

The slicing of the odds was due, he added, to a steady, persistent bombardment of heavy wagers from all parts of the country by those with confidence in the present champion. When the layers realized their predicament, it was too late to retrench.

The big money was unloaded when Johnstown romped home in the Paumonok, he continued, and El Chico was beaten in the previous race by Gilded Knight, a stablemate of Johnstown.

EVEN MONEY NOW

The insiders knew that Johnstown could run rings around Gilded Knight and, on that dope, ignored El Chico in the figuring.

The influx of money became so strong that the odds were cut to 5 to 1. That did not slow up the anxious bettors, so the pressure has cut Johnstown's odds to almost even money.

The informant remarked that Johnstown may gallop to the post not higher than even money and, possibly, at odds-on.

If so, he will join the small rank of immortals which triumphed in this historical classic at those odds.

Forty-two favorites have won this classic in 65 runnings. This is an overwhelming percentage, and it probably will be increased slightly when Johnstown finishes his task.

Little Returns To N. U. Lineup

Capt. Bill Little, one of Northeastern's leading stickers, is expected back in the Husky lineup tomorrow afternoon, when Herb Gallagher takes his team to Storrs, Ct., for a New England College Conference League game with Connecticut State.

The Husky leader was confined to his home last week with a bad attack of grippe and missed three games. There still is some doubt as to whether he has regained his strength, but he probably will be in the lineup someplace, if it is at all possible.

Gallagher was satisfied with the results of last week's heavy schedule and plans no lineup changes. Walter Urbanik will remain at first base, where he looked good last week, and Alex Struzziero apparently has won a regular spot in the outfield.

Girl Wins Post On Boys' Net Team

CARLISLE, Pa., May 1 (AP)—Pretty Alice Abbott, of Philadelphia, has won a place on the Dickinson College varsity tennis team—the first girl in the history of the college to accomplish the feat.

Gardner Hays, Dickinson coach, believes she has "fine possibilities of developing into a classy intercollegiate player."

A freshman, she is a southpaw with a speedy service and good backhand.

Bees' Fans in Court For Illegal Parking

It was a busy day in Brookline court today, with Boston Bees fans as customers. Brookline police tagged 85 cars for parking illegally on the Brookline side of the city line during yesterday's game with the Giants.

Announcing the taggings, Brookline traffic officers revealed that 900 violators of traffic rules have received summonses in the last seven days.

Bob Feller the Class, White Sox Admit

By The Associated Press

The whole country, it seems, is puling for Lou Gehrig—his fan mail right now is the heaviest ever . . . seems to us the boys who are busy electing Luke Sewell to succeed Oscar Vitt at Cleveland are putting a couple of mighty nice guys on the spot.

Penn relays news indicates Jock Sutherland merely shifted from the football of the track squad . . . The Washington anvil chorus is in full swing again, likening Clark Griffith's payroll to those in Philly and St. Louis.

Bobby Feller: The White Sox say you are a better pitcher than ever before and getting better . . . Dutch Meyer: They're betting around Austin, Texas Christian doesn't win the Southwest grid title again this year . . . Washington Redskins: You may as well start looking for another end. Bob Masterson is going to stay in Florida and coach Ponce de Leon high at Coral Gables . . . Frankie Frisch: the baseball writers say they can't help missing the sight and sound of you on the Cardinal bench.

Frank Frisch

Gabby Hartnett took a few huffs and puffs in batting practice the other day and almost blew the park down. One of Dizzy Dean's pitches landed in almost the same spot as did the famous Hartnett homer of last year against the Pirates. Another cleared the palings. A third darn near tore the fence down. Gabby howled towards the Cub bench: "That's just to keep Mancuso hustling for his job."

What's this about the Yale brass hats suggesting that Backfield Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale drop his nickname?

. . . Dan Parker of the N. Y. Mirror is driving wrestling promoters nuts the way he is printing the results of their matches a day ahead of time . . . Yanks, Giants and Dodgers doubt if the World's Fair will help baseball attendance much . . . Zeke Bonura, who likes an apple a day (along with his bananas) was charged 40 cents per for same by a Philly hotel . . .

Dean Hurls In Stratton Benefit

CHICAGO, May 1 (AP)—Pennant races were forgotten today for a few hours as the Chicago White Sox and Cubs met in a benefit game for Monty Stratton, disabled and one-time ace pitcher of the American Leaguers.

Rain and cold weather brought postponement of the game on April 17, when it was originally scheduled to be played.

Despite the philanthropic purpose of the game, Manager Gabby Hartnett is using the exhibition as a chance to test the question-mark right arm of Dizzy Dean, whose mound activity has been limited to batting practice tossing since the Cubs returned from their spring training jaunt.

Hartnett has said definitely Dizzy was his choice as the starting pitcher.

How long he will work, Gabby indicated, depended on how his arm felt.

Opposing Dean was Edgar Smith, young southpaw the Sox recently purchased from the Philadelphia Athletics.

Dizzy Dean

The White Sox business office, handling details of the game, announced $14,000 in advance ticket sales had been received and predicted a crowd of 25,000 would see the game.

The entire proceeds, including scoreboard, parking lot and other incidental receipts, will go to Stratton, who lost a leg last November in a hunting accident near his Texas home.

Stratton won 15 games and lost nine last season, the best record of any pitcher on the Sox staff.

The lanky Texan, now wearing an artificial leg, is first-base coach with the team. Owner Lou Comiskey has assured him he has a job with the White Sox as long as he wants it.
